WILKIE'S STARTING POINT.

A story which shows the great effect which an apparently trifling thing will sometimes have upon a person's after life is told in connection with Wilkie, the painter.

One day, when Sir John Sinclair was dining in company with Mr. Wilkie, the artist was asked if any particular circumstance had led him to adopt his profession.

"Had your father, mother or any of your relations a turn for painting?" inquired Sir John. "Or what led you to follow that art?"

"The truth is, Sir John," replied Mr. Wilkie, "you made me a painter."

"I?" exclaimed the baronet. "Why, I never had the pleasure of meeting you before."

"No," responded the painter, with a smile, "but when you were drawing up the statistical account of Scotland my father, who was a clergyman in Fife, had a good deal of correspondence with you concerning his parish, and in the course of it you sent him a colored drawing of a soldier in the uniform of your Highland Fencible regiment."

"I was so delighted with this picture that I was constantly drawing and trying to color copies of it, and it was in this way, to the best of my belief, that my transformation into a painter was gradually effected."

"A Youth's Companion."

A Remarkable Experience.

Alexander Devine, in the Manchester City News, tells the following remarkable anecdote of the late Sir Harry Verney:

One of his famous exploits was his riding across Argentina. One day his attention was drawn to a figure lying on the roadside some miles from Santiago under the shelter of a rude hut of leaves and branches.

Pulling up, he discovered a priest, who turned out to be in a high condition of fever. Verney obtained assistance, and the prostrate man carried to his own rooms and practically nursed him into convalescence and eventual recovery.

After some months of friendly intercourse and companionship the two separated and probably never thought to meet again. Many years passed, so many that the majority of men had lived their lives and died, but the two who had met under such striking circumstances still lived, the one Sir Harry Verney, the other no less a person than Pio Nono, pope of Rome!

Found in a Fox's Cope.

I have in my possession a rather curious collection of articles found in the crop of a black Spanish fowl, which was sent to me for examination. I found it contained two common pins, three small screw nails, three small brass nails, seven brass buttons, one gentleman's overcoat button, two legs and one foot of a small china doll, three pieces of elf, two small pieces of lead, one small bone, one shoe sole, 42 pieces of glass (bottle glass and glass beads), one piece of coal, 10 white chunky stones and 11 Indian corn pickles. ## INDICESTION

And Liver Complaint

CURED BY USING

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Mr. T. J. CLUNE,

of Wallingford, S. Australia, writes:

"Six years ago, I had an attack of Indigestion and Liver Complaint that lasted for weeks; I was unable to do any hard work,

had no appetite, food distressed me, and I suffered much from headache. My skin was yellow and sleep did not refresh me. I tried several remedies and consulted a doctor, without obtaining any relief. Finally, one of my customers recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It helped me from the first, - in fact,

after taking six bottles I was completely cured, and could eat anything and sleep like a child."
